

Mean Streets

Guns are not the answer, so why does it feel this way?
Young children and teenagers are getting killed nearly every day.
In this lifetime if you don't do what these gangs say, they are determined to make your life hell and make you pay.

This gun crime needs to stop, like everyone said, but the stubborn gun carrier's are not getting this into their heads.
That their life is changing to danger red.
Red is the blood that they lay in when these guns kill them dead.

White, Black, Asian, etc., we're all the same, but these guns are making these children think it's a game, that rolling with a gun will bring them fame, but when you get caught, you will be put to shame.

Mothers are in tears of the killing of their teens, what can we do for all this to be seen? The teens that are dead will never see their dreams, because the streets of today are so mean.

Gangs today, feel they don't need to show no fear, but do they know that their families will end up in tears.
Your friends say they have your back, but that's really rare, because when you end up dead, see if they really care.

Montana Smith